WILLIAM D. BROWN
1871-1872

TO THE ULERY REUNION ASSOCIATION, ASSEMBLED AT GLYNDON GROVE, OHIO, GREETING:

It is a great pleasure to be present this first time and meet so many of you today. I notice four generations are represented. In behalf of the Genealogy Committee I submit the result of our labors. Perfection is not claimed. Letters that came in during the progress of our labors varied in fullness and details in reference to the different branches. For this and other reasons there could neither be strict uniformity in arrangement nor equal fullness in details. All statements and data judged to be correct were used impartially. What is submitted is from that which was sent in by your efficient Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Charles M. Bucher; also by members of the Committee and others; and what and whom I saw, heard, and remembered relative to the Ulery genealogy. Among the numerous dates there may be found a few errors. If any, they may have been in original records or letters, copying, or otherwise. What has been gathered on the Hawbaker side is from two visits, in 1874 and 1877, to the Hawbaker home at Welsh Run, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, from recently visiting Hawbaker descendants at and near Dallas Center, Iowa, and from letters from Joseph Free and others.

The Committee could not meet. Ulery J. Biller lives at Washington, D. C., D. J. Nysewander at Toledo, Ohio, Mrs. E. N. Furay at Osborn, Ohio, and the writer at Des Moines, Iowa.

The report is hereby submitted for your consideration and action.

C. NYSEWANDER, Chairman of Committee.

NOTE:—The report was read before the Ulery Reunion Association meeting September 1, 1930, and accepted by vote. Three of the four members of the Committee were present.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

The name Ulery, as spelled now, was Ulerich or Ulrich earlier, and, prior to that, probably in Germany, Oelreich. Some spell it Ullrich or Ullery. Perhaps all by either name are either closely or remotely related. John Ulery first came to Ohio in 1809, with his father, George Ulery. George Ulery located on a lease near or on the site of Dayton, Ohio, then a small settlement.

Quoting from Century History of Clark County and Springfield: "The battle of Piqua Indian Village, on Mad river, six miles west of Springfield, August 8, 1780, drove back the federated Indian tribes for a few miles only, leaving them to roam over the country a third of a century longer." General Rogers Clark. The Indian village is supposed to be Tecumseh's birth place.

Quoting from the same history: "John Ulery was born in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, where he was reared and married. He subsequently came to Ohio to enter land, walking the entire distance of 500 miles both ways. In 1840 he brought his family and household goods overland to Ohio and located on a tract of 200 acres near Liberty. The family living for some time in a log cabin which stood on the land." The correctness of this the reader can judge by comparison with other historical statements herein given.

After George Ulery located, Indians occasionally roamed through the settlement. On one occasion two Indians approached the cabin. None of the men were at home. Mrs. Ulery, wife of George Ulery, hastened to close the door. The Indians pushed at the door till it opened enough to get their fingers within. She grabbed a nearby ax and hammered their fingers till they let go and then left. George Ulery, with his family, little later returned to Pennsylvania. The mother and younger child riding horseback and the others walking. (The incident about the Indians approaching the cabin was related to the writer and others, as told her, by Nancy (Ulery) Nysewander).

John Ulery was about 13 years of age when they returned to Pennsylvania. He went to live with an older brother. His father, George Ulery, went to Wurtemberg, later a part of the German empire. He visited friends and relatives and then returned to America. Mrs. Charles M. Bucher and her father, Isaac Ulery, visited the Piqua, Ohio, cemetery and found the George Ullery cemetery lot with monuments lettered as follows:

"George Ullery, died June 8, 1849, aged 82 years." -- 1767

"Wife, Anna Ullery, died July 11, 1861, aged 98 years, 6 mos., 4 days."

On the cemetery book the name is spelled Ulery.

Some state that George Ulery re-married after his first wife's decease. Of this there does not seem to be positive evidence. Monument record shows that his wife, Anna, outlived him.

Considerable effort has been made to determine the relationship of John, Jacob, and Adam Ulery. Information gathered by correspondence and personal visits, and conversation with descendants of the three by Mrs. Charles M. Bucher and her father, Isaac Ulery, and what the writer remembers, is submitted. Shannon Fergus, Sarah E. Rasor, and Mrs. E. Stockstill, grandchildren of Jacob Ulery; and J. A. and D. W. Shellhaas, D. J. Ulery of Bradford, Ohio, and Mrs. Hecker of Covington, Ohio, grandchildren of Adam Ulery and David Stoltz, were consulted. Also Leah Ulery, wife of Jacob Ulery, deceased son of John Ulery. She states that John Ulery's sons and daughters called Jacob and Adam Ulery "Uncle Jacob and Uncle Adam." Mrs. Hecker says her mother called Jacob, "Uncle." The writer heard Nancy (Ulery) Nysewander so designate both. From this it had been supposed by some of the descendants that the three were brothers. However they might have so spoken if Adam had been their great uncle, or it might have been a custom if he were a cousin of John and Jacob. To be the great uncle of John Ulery's children Adam would have been a brother of George Ulery, father of John Ulery. But on Adam Ulery's monument (a letter from D. W. Shellhaas states) appears the following:

("George Adam Ulery died March 6, 1877, -- 1771
aged 88 years, 11 months, and 10 days."

It is unlikely that both of two brothers would have been named George. There is about 21 years between their birth dates. These facts do not support the impression that George and Adam Ulery were brothers.

Sarah E. Ulery Rasor, grand daughter of Jacob Ulery, writes: "I remember hearing Adam Ulery's name mentioned when I was a girl. I never heard my grandfather speak of Adam as a brother. Neither did Jacob's sister, Barbara (Ulery) Rasor. I think Adam was a cousin of John and Jacob." She lists the brothers and sisters of the older generation as follows: John Ulery of Clark County, Ohio; Jacob Ulery of Shelby County, Ohio; George Ulery of Oregon; Christine Ulery who married John Stoltz; and Barbara Ulery who married Mr. Eyer, and after he died she married Daniel Rasor.

David Stoltz, grocer, West Milton, Ohio, writes that persons of whom he inquired said that the three, John, Jacob and Adam, were brothers. He is a grandson of Christine (Ulery) Stoltz. John Ulery grew to manhood and married Elizabeth Hawbaker. They settled near Mercersburg, Franklin County, Pennsylvania. But the west seemed to attract. John returned to Ohio in 1839, walking all the way from Franklin County, Pennsylvania, to Clark County, Ohio. He averaged about 30 miles a day. He purchased a farm located about three miles northeast of New Carlisle, Ohio, and in Pike Township. It is now known as the Liberty community. It was so named when Jacob Biller built the Liberty school house.

He then returned to Pennsylvania by the same method. It was late in the Fall and the weather became threatening during the latter part of the journey, so he travelled the remainder of the way by bus. The night after he reached home a heavy snow fell and blocked the mountain roads most of the winter.

Had he had not hastened on the latter part of his journey he could not have reached home for a considerable length of time.

In the Spring of 1840, the family, with relatives, in all, said to have been 21 in number, with teams and covered wagons, started for Ohio. They stopped the first night with relatives named Martin. They travelled via the National Road which had been completed from Baltimore to Columbus. During the day the movers stopped to rest and eat by the wayside. During the night they stopped at taverns or places called "mover's entertainment." Sometimes because of crowded conditions, they furnished their own bedclothes and slept on the floor. Those were the days of State money, and John Ulery was careful to secure "hard" money before leaving for Ohio. For safety he placed it in a chest under the goods in the bottom of the wagonbed. Over night the wagons were left in a yard near the tavern. Grandmother had a horse upon which a saddlebag was placed, in the pockets of which, Jacob, five, and Magdalene or "Mollie," three years of age, rode much of the way. The older children, John, George, and Nancy, rode in the wagon or walked, as they chose, but walked most of the way. To them the journey was especially interesting. The wagon with curved bed was a Conestoga, so-called because the type was first used in the vicinity of Conestoga creek, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, named after the Conestoga Indians. It was carefully sheltered and sometimes used on the farm. The family settled upon the newly purchased farm, and John and Elizabeth Ulery lived there during the remainder of their natural lives.

"Far from the madding crowd's ignoble strife,
Their sober wishes never learned to stray;
Along the cool, sequestered vale of life
They kept the noiseless tenor of their way."

Adam Ulery served nine years in the Napoleonic wars. The nearest he came to losing his life was when a bullet passed through his hat. He settled in Miami County, Ohio, about 3 miles northeast of Troy, on the Urbana pike. He lived to reach the age of 89. Until three years before his death he carried to town the produce he had to sell.

The nine children of Adam and Charlotte Whittier Ulery were: Fred, John, Joseph, George, William, Mary, Christine, Charlotte (Shellhaas), and Catharine (Batson). Christine became Mrs. Diltz, and after his decease, Mrs. Crull. She died at South Bend, Indiana. Catharine died in Missouri where her daughter, Mrs. Ham of Palmyra, Mo., had a wide influence. Mary became Mrs. Lee, and died in Iowa. George was killed near Covington, Ohio, by a tree falling upon him. Jacob Ulery's sister Barbara married Mr. Eyer (by some spelled Ayer), and after his decease she married Daniel Rasor. Her children were Christine, Barbara, Catharine, Margaret, Nancy, Elizabeth, John, and George Eyer. Christine lived at Englewood, Montgomery County. Her children are: John Wesley (born June 2, 1844), Nathaniel (June 12, 1846), Rebecca C. (Jan. 1, 1849), Sarah Elizabeth (Feb. 5, 1853), Martha Jane (April 5, 1855), Barbara A. Ulery (Stitzel) (Nov. 11, 1851-Oct. 1, 1901). Christine (Eyer) Ulery was born May 26, 1821. Married May 17, 1842. Died May 4, 1897. Jacob Ulery, Jr., May 26, 1821-Sept., 1855).

The writer saw Adam Ulery at the home of John Ulery at religious meetings. He was an interesting conversationalist, especially upon the then burning question, the civil war, for this was back in the early sixties. His long service in European wars gave him mature judgment relative to the causes and horrors of war. If "Uncle Adam Ulery," as he was called, had written a book relating to his war experiences, it would have been interesting. Adam Ulery, his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Shellhaas, and two of their children are buried in Riverside cemetery, Troy, Ohio. Michael Shellhaas, 1826-1909. Charlotte Shellhaas, 1839-1922.

A letter from the corresponding secretary says: Catharine Ulery Hicks was seven years old when her parents came to Ohio from Pennsylvania. She was their fifth child, born in Pennsylvania in 1823. That made their settling in Shelby County, Ohio, in 1830, ten years before John Ulery came to Clark County, Ohio. Jacob was four years older than John Ulery. Information from different sources points to their having been born in Pennsylvania. Jacob was born March 19, 1792. Died Dec. 6, 1879. John Ulery was born March 15, 1796. Died May 30, 1869. Adam Ulery was born in Germany in 1788. Died March 6, 1877.

The following tribute to the memory of John and Elizabeth Ulery is offered by D. J. Nysewander, 1010 E. Broadway, Toledo, Ohio:

Dear ones, rest; days of trial o'er,
The dread of pain shall be no more;
Life's burdens all, you have laid down,
Above in heaven you've gained a crown.
Here we must tarry yet awhile,
'Tis oft we miss your loving smile;
It always brought to us good cheer,
Sweet memories now do bring you near.
Sweet memories are with us still
Of how you soothed our many ills;
Sure, then, we shall not soon forget
Good deeds that benefit us yet.
Rest, dear ones; who journeyed long;
Your lives a light to earth's gay throng;
Commend we now to God your souls;
You've run the race, you've reached the goal.
We know ere long we'll meet again,
We'll leave this world of grief and pain;
A promise, God, to us has given.
That we shall meet again in heaven.

The following is from the family Bible record of John and Elizabeth Ulery, published in 1797. The entries were copied by Jacob Ulery from an older record. This Bible is now in the possession of Mrs. Elizabeth Kline, 1307 Greenwood street, Dallas, Texas. Copy sent by Miss Ella Grace Kline.

DEATHS

Daniel Ulery died June 15, 1821; Joseph Ulery died September 16, 1821; Magdalene Ulery died May 23, 1864.

NOTE—Monument Records: "John Ulery died May 30, 1869, aged 73 years, 2 months, and 13 days." The old family Bible birth record would make him two days older. "Elizabeth, wife of John Ulery, died June 11, 1878, aged 80 years, 11 months, and 7 days." Her birth and decease dates make her one day younger.

Relative to the names and relationship of Ulery, Ullery, and Ulrey, for comparison by the reader, the following is submitted. Jacob Ullery was born March 19, 1792. Died Dec. 6, 1879. His wife, Catharine Everhart, was born in Germany Nov. 28, 1794. Died Nov. 30, 1870. Were married Nov.

28, 1814. Mrs. Fergus, mother of Mrs. Stockstill, and an aunt, Mrs. Stewart, who lived on the home place, remained in Shelby county. The ten children of Jacob and Catharine Ullery were:

John Ullery, May 11, 1815; George Ullery, May 22, 1817; Dinah Ullery, July 23, 1819; Jacob Ullery, May 26, 1821; Catharine Ullery Hicks, June 21, 1823; Samuel Ullery, Oct. 18, 1825; Margaret Ullery Dunlap, April 26, 1828; Barbara Ullery Fergus, May 26, 1830; Elizabeth Ullery Stewart, April 27, 1832; Sarah Ann Ullery Mellinger, Sept. 25, 1834.

Da. Dr. Father
The following was copied from the Miami County history: "G. C. Ullery, M. D., 50 years of age, 1880, is the son of David E. and Rachel Passage. He is a grandson of David and a great grandson of Jacob Ullery. Jacob Ullery was born on Chincoteague Island, off the Eastern coast of Maryland, March 5, 1772, and came to Ohio in 1810. Jacob died in Newberry township, Miami county, Aug. 7, 1847. He was of German descent and a member of the Dunkard or German Baptist church. David Ullery, son of Jacob, was born in Montgomery county, Feb. 28, 1809, and was a boy when he accompanied his parents to Miami county. David Ullery and Alsey Gibbons had four children. Jacob who was killed in the battle of Atlanta, 1864; James G., who died in New Mexico; Mary E. and David E."

This historical quotation does not show any immediate connection with the John Ullery relationship.

Relative to the Ulrey family, the following from a list sent by D. J. Nysewander, is submitted: Three brothers emigrated from Germany in the early part of 1700, and settled east of the mountains in Pennsylvania. One of them had three sons who lived in Washington county, Pennsylvania. Their names were Stephen, Daniel and John. Stephen died in 1820. His children's names were: David, Stephen, Simon, Jacob, Henry, and Eli. Daniel moved to Miami county, Ohio, in an early day. He had a large family. John Ulrey married a German woman by the name of Elizabeth Arnold. John farmed. He built a stone house which still stands. Many descendants are yet living in Clermont county and other parts of Ohio. The relationship connection, if any, could not be determined. There is a large number of descendants. They may have been from the same stock, but that is farther back than could be reached. The full list can be preserved, for future possible use, with other papers of the Ulery Reunion Association.

Other immigrants

HAWBAKER

The ancestors of Elizabeth Hawbaker emigrated from Germany to America in an early day. Elizabeth Hawbaker was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania July 5, 1797. Died June 11, 1878. Her father owned a farm at Welsh Run, Franklin county, Pennsylvania. Two sons later owned the farm. One lived in the older home building, and the other had the part upon which later buildings were erected, one of which is a stone building erected over a strong flowing spring. It is yet in the possession of a Hawbaker descendant. John Hawbaker was living on and owned the farm when the writer first met him in 1874. On a later visit in 1877, when on the way to Baltimore to attend the University of Maryland Medical school, he then lived some distance from the old farm. He was a liberal giver, having given away largely the value of the farm. He was a leader of the York Brethren and had a reputation in the community for visiting and praying with the sick, and was generally well thought of by all. He was a sincere Christian man. It was on the 1877 visit that Uncle George Ulery sent a verbal message by the writer to his (Uncle George Ulery's) "Uncle Johnny Hawbaker," as he was commonly called. This introduces the question of the relationship of Elizabeth Ulery. Her father must have married after his first wife's decease, for there were two sets of children, Elizabeth, Barbara and Anna being daughters of the first wife. "Uncle Johnny Hawbaker" was a half brother. The half sisters were Frances who married Fredrick Free; and Mrs. David Stamey. The half brothers were John, Christian and Daniel. The names of "Uncle Johnny Hawbaker's" children are given as Daniel, John, Joseph, David, Henry, Rebecca, Maria, Nancy, and Mrs. Susie Royer. Henry is yet (1930) living in Minnesota. Susie was born in 1869 and lives in Dallas county, Iowa, 2 miles north of Dallas Center. She is a daughter of John Hawbaker's second wife whom he married when he was sixty years old, his first wife having deceased. Rebecca married Mr. Beck; Maria married Abraham Whitmer; Susie married Roscoe Royer; Nancy did not marry.

The sons, Daniel, David, and John moved to Dallas county, Iowa, in 1879. Daniel visited the writer's home in Des Moines. One of the occasions was to meet his cousin Nancy (Ulery) Nysewander who was visiting in Des Moines. Coming back to Elizabeth (Hawbaker) Ulery, or as she is familiarly called, by her descendants, "Grandmother Ulery," it can be truthfully said that she was a woman of strong character. After John Ulery's decease, Liberty church building was erected near Liberty cemetery. The question of location was up. Some favored locating it on a corner of Benjamin Garver's farm. He had offered to donate ground. A committee meeting was held at grandmother's home. After others had spoken in favor of the other location, she gave her reasons why she thought it ought to be located near her home where religious meetings had been regularly held during the past many years. She spoke in German or Pennsylvania Dutch. Her talk was effective. All saw the wisdom of her plea and agreed with her. The church building was located near by on a corner donated by her son George Ulery. It was dedicated June, 1876. Ground near by for a cemetery had been set apart, being a corner of the John Ulery farm. A large number of Ulery relatives are buried in Liberty cemetery. As secretary of the building committee serving then, the writer remembers transactions connected with the subject.

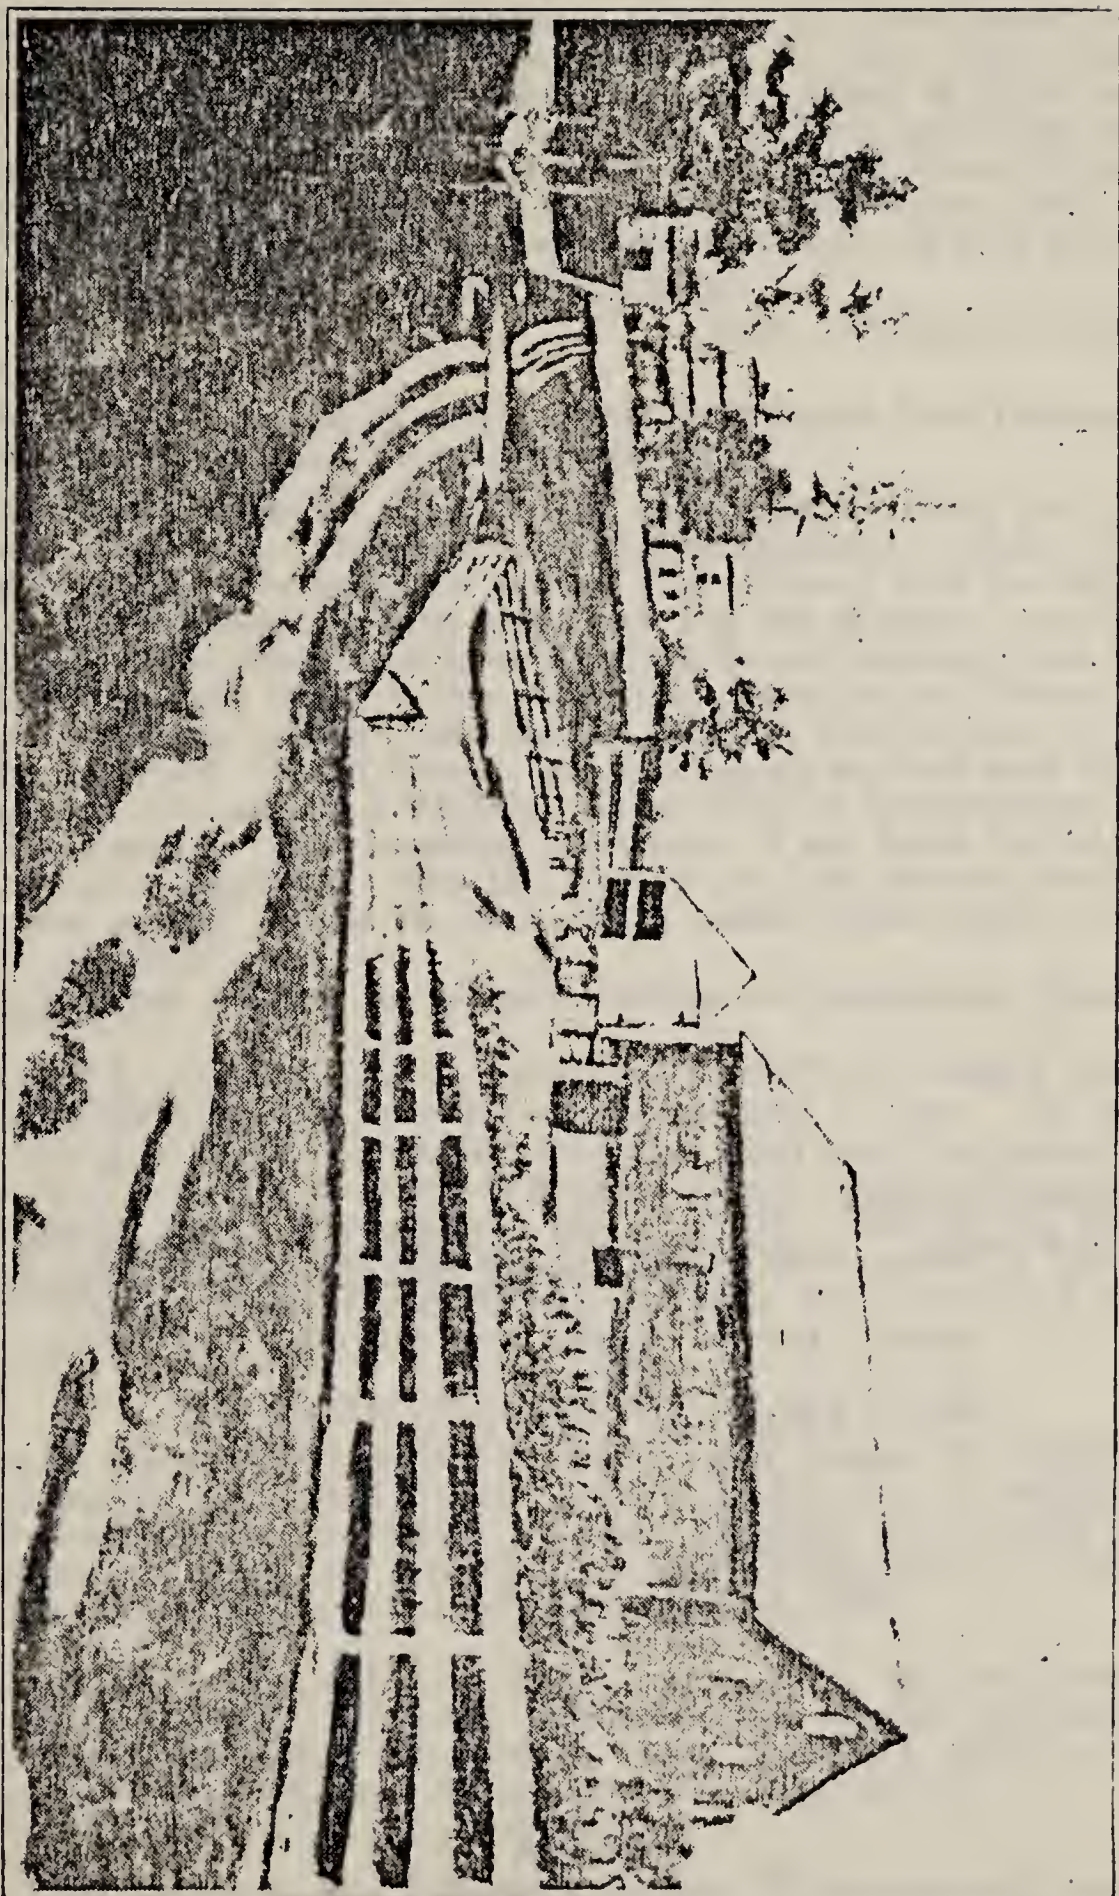

This brief and incomplete historical sketch of the ancestry and life of Elizabeth (Hawbaker) Ulery may point to a valuable example.

While John and Elizabeth Ulery did not neglect to labor to provide material needs they were earnest and practical in religious matters. In moving from one state to another they were some distance from a place to worship. For many years religious services were regularly held in their home. They invited Rev. John Wenger (died Jan. 30, 1879), sometimes assisted by others, to conduct the meetings. They entertained the crowd, which was large on Sundays, at their own expense. This was continued until after John Ulery's decease in 1869. These religious meetings served as a home mission in the community. The influence for good can not be estimated. All of their children and also many others of their descendants followed their example. A clean ancestry is a great blessing, physically and spiritually, to descendants.

MRS. ROYER'S LETTER EXPLAINING THE HAWBAKER RELATIONSHIP

Mr. Roscoe Royer lives 2 miles north of Dallas Center, Iowa. His wife, Mrs. Susie Royer is a daughter of John Hawbaker, who was a leader of the York Brethren, Welsh Run, Pennsylvania. After the decease of his first wife, John Hawbaker married. He was 60 years old at the time of his second marriage. Mrs. Royer, daughter of his second wife, was born in 1869. Being young, compared with the ages of the other children, she survives them, and can give direct reliable and valuable information about the family connection. The writer visited their beautiful farm home north of Dallas Center. Later she wrote as follows:

Mrs. Stamey, Mrs. Fanny Free, and Mrs. Ulery were my father's (John Hawbaker) sisters. My mother used to tell me that father had two sisters who moved to Ohio. Barbara Martin's son, Christian Martin died near McConnellsburg. He was my first cousin. So his mother was father's sister.

I remember Mrs. Stamey. She was my aunt. The other three sisters, Mrs. Free, Mrs. Ulery, and Mrs. Martin, I only remember by hearsay. I do not know whether they are full sisters or half-sisters.* Daniel, David, and John, were my half-brothers. John Hawbaker, leader of the York Church was their father. Peter Hawbaker located in Greencastle in 1810. John Hawbaker located at Welsh Run in 1812. Henry Hawbaker located at Upton in 1813. Daniel Hawbaker, brother of my father, and my father lived close together. A stream ran from one place to the other. Daniel lived where the spring is, of which you spoke. Christian Hawbaker lived in the Valley. He was also a brother of my father. I think there were three boys and four girls.

Yours very truly,

MRS. ROSCOE ROYER.

*See Joseph Free's letter.

Under date of August 22, 1930, a letter from Joseph Free, Clayton, Ohio, son of Frances Free, and 83 years of age, says:

Grandfather Hawbaker married twice. Grandmother Ulery was a daughter of his first wife. Her name was Elizabeth Hawbaker. Anna Zuck and Barbara Martin, (the latter the wife of Peter Martin) were her full sisters. All were of the first wife. The second wife had five children, three boys and two girls. Their names were John, Christian, Daniel, Catharine, and Frances. Catharine married David Stamey. My mother's name was Frances. I remember Stamey's, Martin's, and Zuck's* being in Ohio when I was ten or twelve years old. David Stamey, Jr., later visited us with their little girl, about ten. She married a Venable. She is living in Chambersburg. I had my home with her while attending conference. I met Sarah Secrest, daughter of Daniel Hawbaker. Also Mrs. Lebeck and Leah Mumma from Florin, Lancaster county. These are some of the cousins. Katie Boyer, Versailles, Ohio, is another.

*Jacob Zuck founded the Brethren College at Huntingdon, Pennsylvania in 1876.

JOHN R. ULERY (Jan. 12, 1825-April 2, 1907) and MARY ZEIGLER (April 6, 1826-April 25, 1897) were married Aug. 9, 1846. (At the same time and place David Nysewander and Nancy Ulery were also married.) They were married by Rev. Crist of the Brethren church. John R. Ulery was born in Franklin county, Pennsylvania, Jan. 12, 1825. He was the third and oldest living son of John and Elizabeth Ulery when united in marriage to Mary Zeigler. Kindness and Christian hospitality were outstanding character qualities of "Uncle John and Aunt Mary." He was a farmer.
